

Spondoolix

Verse 1.

When I was a little boy I loved my uncle Fred
Even though I hardly understood a single thing he said
Just to hear him talking, would really make my day
He'd offer me some sound advice and this is what he'd say

Chorus

Get plenty of spondoolix and you will be alright
We all need spondoolix every single day and night
Look after your spondoolix, that's all you have to do
And then you'll find spondoolix will be looking after you

Verse 2.

Uncle Fred was a cockney from London's old east end
When he'd talk we'd nod and grin, smile and just pretend
I'm sure he never noticed that anything was wrong
When he went home we'd sit around and sing his favorite song

Chorus

Get plenty of spondoolix and you will be alright
We all need spondoolix every single day and night
Look after your spondoolix, that's all you have to do
And then you'll find spondoolix will be looking after you

Verse 3.

Now just a few years later, Uncle Fred passed away
And we all went to the east end, to his funeral for the day
As we stood around the grave and they lowered the casket in
The preacher waved his arms and said "now everybody sing"

Chorus

Get plenty of spondoolix and you will be alright
We all need spondoolix every single day and night
Look after your spondoolix, that's all you have to do
And then you'll find spondoolix will be looking after you

Verse 3.

For years it really worried me, what could spondoolix be?
Until they had a telethon on B.B.C. TV
They were raising money, so the hungry could be fed

A cockney lad jumped up, waved his money and he said
“Now come on ladies and gentlemen give me your spondoolix
I’ve got my spondoolix out and I’m waving at ya, look come on.
I want you to get your spondoolix out at and wave it back at me.
That’s good, That’s good over there. Now come on ladies and gentleman paper money, paper money” And I thought uncle Fred, you old rascal, if you weren’t dead I’d kill ya. So I changed the song uncle Fred and this is how I’m gonna sing it to you now.

Chorus

Get plenty of money and you will be alright
We all need money every single day and night
Look after your money, that’s all you have to do
And then you’ll find spondoolix will be looking after you
